

MRS. KATE HILLIARD'S ADDRESS BEFORE THE SUNDAY NIGHT CLUB

man from a man into a slave. I am the symbol of lust, the badge of bondage, the boon companion of bayonet and torch, and the trademark of war.

Without me murder would be murder; butchery, butchery; and diplomacy a dead letter. With me individuals perish, personality is a mockery and cruelty a synonym of justice.

Women follow me in crowds. I fascinate them. They smile at me, blind to the knowledge that through me are their sorrows multiply a thousand-fold.

With me there can be no peace. Without me man is man, woman is woman and God is God.

Thomas Paine struck the key note of patriotism when he said: "The world is my country." It should be the slogan of the working class the world over. To prepare for peace, the working class must unite on the economic as well as on the political field. No programme which does not recognize the class struggle can bring permanent or desirable peace. A struggle does not necessarily imply hatred, which the Socialists are falsely accused of fomenting. Permanent peace can come only when the class struggle is ended by a working class taking over the tools of industry to be operated for the benefit of the whole world. In the meantime, "The greatest hero of the whole world would be the man who could say to the army lay down your arms and go home."

The capitalist class is fully aware of the class struggle and the capitalists are a unit against the working class. On the plea of identity of interests and patriotism they seek to prepare the workers for exploitation, or, at the first call, to shoulder guns and start off to kill.

When Europe was divided into principalities and kingdoms, as it still is to some extent, the people were taught "the divine right of kings." Each king was ready to fight every other king and the slogan was "for God and my King." This partnership brought God into queer fellowship when we remember the general character of the old time kings. This partnership with God still exists if we listen to the Kaiser's "me and God" and the prayers of the Allies.

The principalities have merged and we have modern Germany, France, Italy and Great Britain. The old patriotism of the petty kings is gone and nobody the worse. With association comes the knowledge that after all it said and done, people are very much alike, all human, with much in common. With economic conditions practically the same in all countries the workers were discovering that neither the flag nor the political or geographical location altered their status as wage earners. Their sole asset—labor power—was becoming a drug on the labor market. The worlds market could not absorb the product and many were jobless. Socialist greetings were exchanged between the workers of the different countries now at war. Perhaps the powers that be chose inter national war rather than face industrial revolution.

Proof that the people of the belligerent countries are not so eager for war and patriotic slaughter comes to us in spite of the press censorship. The light against conscription in England and the arrest in Austria of 100 Socialists who spoke against the war argue uprisings everywhere in protest against senseless war. "These are signs in the heavens that preparation for peace has started. The only justification for war lies with the working class, which as Daniel DeLeon said must first exhaust every peaceful method of civilized warfare. Should peaceful methods prove inadequate, the resort to physical forces is the fault of capital, not labor. The wielder of power can choose the weapons and force them to do his bidding.

To the court and jury which condemned him for his anti-militarism, Gustav Harve said: "The nation for you is a kindly mother, for us a step mother, a shrew who detests us. Patriotism is for you a sentiment natural and profitable, for us it is a fools trap."

If the idea of this new patriotism which declares "the world is my country," and which recognizes the right of all men to a full free life—can permeate the hearts and minds of all the people, it will dominate the world. Poverty, hunger and crime have no place on the earth, and will be eliminated through the economic solidarity of the working class.

Remember this. Take it with you along the path and through the gateway to the goal we are striving to reach. Blazon this inscription on your minds and

RECEPTION AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, Jan. 21.—Diplomats representing the entente allies and twenty-eight neutral nations gathered at the White House tonight for the first of two formal dinners arranged by the president and Mrs. Wilson in honor of the members of the diplomatic corps. The second dinner, to be given next Tuesday night, will be attended by the ambassadors of Germany, the charges d'affaires of Austria-Hungary and Turkey, the ministers of Bulgaria and the same neutral diplomats present tonight.

With the diplomats in their court uniforms, the state dining room of the White House presented a brilliant scene. In addition to the diplomats and their wives, the guests included the Secretary of State and Mrs. Lansing, Counselor for the State Department and Mrs. Polk, the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Osborne, Senators Steiwer and Missouri Sutherland and Utah and Representatives Flood of Virginia and Cooper of Wisconsin, ranking majority and minority members of the senate and house foreign relations committee, with their wives, and several personal friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson.

J. J. Jusserand, the French ambassador, dean of the Washington diplomatic corps, and Mme. Jusserand occupied the seats of honor next to the president and Mrs. Wilson. The other guests were arranged around the tables in accordance with their rank. Argentina, Greece and Colombia were represented by charges d'affaires, the heads of the missions being away from the city.

Particular interest attached to the dinner because it was the first affair of its kind given in Washington since the outbreak of the European war.

ENGINEERS ARE ORGANIZED.

Ely, Nev., Jan. 21.—The organization of Steptoe division No. 810, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, was perfected at East Ely last night by Chief Engineer E. O. Halsted, assisted by Grand Division Representative J. H. Wardleigh, O. W. Holobaugh, James Hope and J. R. Forest, all of Division No. 55 of Ogden. Following the perfection of the Steptoe division a banquet was given and a recess declared until 2 p. m. Friday, at which time permanent officers of the new division will be elected. The charter will remain open for thirty days.

WAGE SETTLEMENT IN PROSPECT.

Ely, Nev., Jan. 21.—The employees of the Nevada Consolidated Copper company met at the Liberty theater last night to consider the matter of the advance in wages and voted unanimously to accept the offer as made by the company, upon the condition that the increase requested by the mechanics and their helpers employed by the Nevada Northern railway be likewise granted. It is confidently predicted by both employers and employees that all matters of wages will be settled to the entire satisfaction of all concerned within the next forty-eight hours.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER PUZZLE TO OFFICERS.

Salt Lake, Jan. 22.—Twenty-four hours of investigation into the murder of the farmhand slain Thursday morning at the Krupp dairy, Twelfth South street and Redwood road, whose body was taken from the Jordan river Thursday afternoon, leaves the investigators more baffled than ever to find a motive for the brutal crime or a clue to the slayer.

Sheriff John S. Corless and Deputy Sheriff Carl C. Carstensen spent the entire afternoon yesterday at the Krupp dairy and in the immediate vicinity talking with the members of the Krupp family and citizens who reside in that neighborhood, but nothing tangible developed upon which the officers might predicate an opinion as to why the man had been murdered.

The investigation made at the Krupp dairy did, however, develop the fact that the name of the murdered man is John Delaney, not "John Lynch" as was first reported to the officers. The explanation of this is probably to be found in the fact that the Krupps are foreigners who speak the English language indifferently. Delaney was not a native of Australia, as the officers were at first informed, but an Austrian, who could speak but little English and who could not read or write. It was ascertained that he worked in the coal mines in Rock Springs, Wyo., in 1914, came to Salt Lake last year and was for a time employed as a section hand here by the Denver & Rio Grande before he went to work at the Krupp dairy.

TRUSTEES AND TEACHERS MEET.

Idaho Falls, Idaho, Jan. 21.—The teachers and school trustees of Bonville county convened yesterday for a two-day session. A large number of the trustees and teachers were present. Professor Thomas B. Shank, superintendent of the Idaho Falls school, gave an address, the subject being "What the Public May Reasonably Expect From the Public Schools." Professor Werner of the Albion normal school spoke on "The Essentials in the Teaching Situation." Dr. Sisson, state commissioner of education, delivered an address at the Auditorium last night, his subject being "School Work in Idaho."

WOMEN INVESTIGATE OPIUM DEN.

Pocatello, Idaho, Jan. 21.—A committee composed of women from the Civic club and the First Presbyterian church yesterday met with Mrs. Fleming, mother of Japonica Fleming, the young girl who was found dead in the opium den on Pocatello avenue, between Lander and Fremont streets, and investigated the premises with a view to making recommendations to the city authorities with reference to the suppression of this and other dens of a like character that are thought to exist in this city.
